I was only able to see this now because of our email problems. By the way, nothing is confidential anymore since as of this morning anyone can log into anybody's account with the standard password and see anything they want. Apparently there is a bug and we can't change the passwords.

Also, this is not exciting at all. It means a lot of work and we should get advice from a litigation lawyer in the US or someone with experience in these matters. And I don't mean any commercial person at Meebo even though they might have received similar letters in the past.

This is anything but good news.

I will take a better look at it tonight.

Thanks,
Felipe

We need to prepare and think carefully how to transform this into an opportunity for Power. I will talk to my friends at Meebo and also see the best response.

Eric, we need to be prepared for Facebook to try to block us and the turn this into a national battle that gets us huge attention. But before we do that, we need to be prepared to address their arguments.

We need to address the scraping argument and the soliciting login credentials. Soliciting login credentials should be something with A LOT of precedent. Everybody has been soliciting login credentials for years. Scraping is also something we should be able to address.

Let's discuss this. This is exciting. :)

Keep this letter confidential.

Thanks.
Steve

Steve,

This looks serious. They want a response by Wednesday in writing.
If I can help, let me know.
